Season's greetings to everyone. Our last newsletter for the year is a little shorter than usual. It focuses on news and resources for the summer holiday season.

News, views, and happenings in brief:

- Now is the time to have your say on the Family Court Proceedings Reform Bill. Submissions close 13 February 2013. For background information and more, click here.
- More than 40 leaders from New Zealand faith communities have released a joint statement on family violence. The faith leaders commit their communities to 6 actions to eliminate family violence.
- New Zealand and Australian Federal Police have signed an agreement to work to reduce family violence in the Pacific, working with the Micronesian police services through the Pacific Prevention of Domestic Violence Programme (PPDVP).
- Also in the Pacific, our thoughts are with the people of Samoa, Wallis and Futuna and Fiji, dealing with the damage and loss caused by Cyclone Evan.
- Closer to home families continue to live with the aftermath of the West Auckland tornado earlier this month and Canterbury earthquakes. Click here for publications that discuss the impact of natural disasters on domestic violence and how agencies can respond to reduce the impact.

Read on for more resources, news and events.

Our office will close on Thursday 20 December, reopening on Monday 7 January 2013.
